

INTERDISCIPLINARY

DOMAINS OF INQUIRY

- Educational Psychology
 - Affective domain
 - Human creativity
 - Learning and motivation (transfer, informal learning, expectancy-value, self- and collective agency, social cognitive theory, etc.)
- Social Impact Assessment
 - International aid and development
 - Environmental policy
- Social/Cultural Capital and Social Value
 - Values and beliefs
 - Strength of weak ties
 - Network theory
- Business and Organizational Psychology
 - High performing teams
 - Experience economy
 - Event management

Processes of Change

I'm willing to receive.
I pay attention.

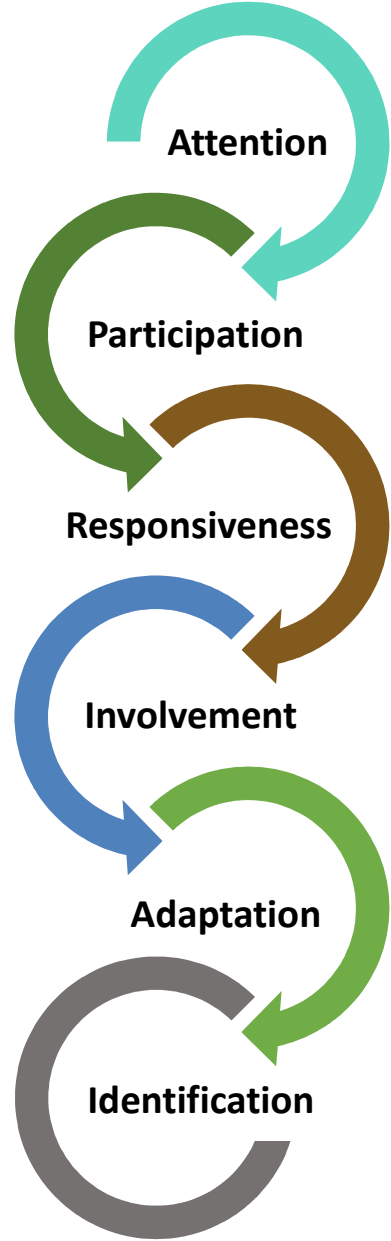

I go, I see, I do, I connect.

I tell others, stay in touch, and do
"arty" things with my new friends.

I look for more of the same.

I begin integrating similar experiences in my daily life.

I consider myself an
"arts person."

Social Impacts & Social Capital

Awareness

Connectivity

Goodwill, fellowship, mutual sympathy, and social intercourse that allow us to connect with people unlike ourselves.

New behaviors

Civil discourse

Co-operation within or among groups through networks of civic engagement.

Visibility and credibility of public art programs

New relationships

Norms of reciprocity, including shared values and understandings.

New attitudes and values